

PSYCHOLOGY

Psychology is the study of the mind and behaviour. This is too broad an area to be fully explained by only one viewpoint, so psychologists have approached this from a number of different viewpoints or perspectives which you can see on the next slide

Task 1

- Read the descriptions of some of the different areas and perspectives in psychology attached and make keyword notes on them

Task 2: Videos

- Watch the videos that give examples of two of the different areas and perspectives. As you watch them see if you can work out which area or perspective they demonstrate best. Don't worry if you are not sure- there is often an overlap

Task 3: Scenarios

- Attached are a number of scenarios.
- Your job is to think about how the area or perspective you are asked for would explain behaviour and to write answers for at least two of the scenarios ready to be handed in on the first day of term. Your written answers only have to be a few lines long for each scenario.
